

ABSTRACT

A genetic motif is extracted from at least one piece of input gene arrangement information, and based on the extracted motif, gene arrangement information including the motif as a part thereof is retrieved from previously sequenced gene information. The gene arrangement information as retrieved is added to the input gene arrangement information, to thereby improve a genetic motif extracting efficiency.